Robbie and Bruce became good friends when they met at catering college in Hampshire in 2004. Since leaving college they have gained remarkable credentials working in some of the South's greatest kitchens and trained under some top chefs. Between them they have cooked for the likes of the President of McLaren, the president of Vodafone, and also made footballing legend Gary Lineker a banana sandwich to name a few.

They have now combined their talent and opened a gourmet sandwich shop at the bottom of Peach Street, Wokingham where you can enjoy tasty food all made to order to guarantee freshness, consistency and quality.
